

Dr. Daniel Semenza is an Assistant Professor in the Department of Sociology, Anthropology, and Criminal Justice at Rutgers University – Camden. He received his PhD in sociology at Emory University in 2018 with a focus in criminology and health. He is currently a faculty affiliate with the New Jersey Center on Gun Violence Research and a member of the Regional Gun Violence Research Consortium at the State University of New York (SUNY). Dr. Semenza's research examines the causes and consequences of gun violence as well as health disparities related to community violence exposure. He has published his research in a wide range of academic journals and his work has been featured on ABC, NBC, and Fox News as well as NPR, the Philadelphia Inquirer, and The Trace.