

Nashon Hornsby, JD, LLM Biographical Profile

Nashon Hornsby is a first-generation college graduate. A native of Neptune Township, New Jersey, he earned an associate's degree in Political Science, Magna Cum Laude, from Brookdale Community College in Lincroft, NJ (1990) and a bachelor's degree in Business Management, Cum Laude from Morehouse College in 1993. Following graduation from Morehouse, he returned to his home state and attended Seton Hall University Law School, where he earned a Juris Doctor (J.D.) degree and Legal Letter Masters (LL.M.) in Health Law. Licensed to practice in the State of New Jersey, Nashon has served the State of New Jersey for approximately 20 years.

Nashon began his public service tenure as a Senior Policy Advisor to former Health Commissioner Dr. Clifton R. Lacy. He then assumed the role of Procedural Safeguards Coordinator for the New Jersey Early Intervention System, where he coordinated dispute resolution efforts for the complainants. He was later hired by former Governor Jon S. Corzine, as a Senior Policy Advisor on issues related to health, education, urban affairs and engagement of faith- and community-based organizations. Following this role, Mr. Hornsby assumed the post of Chief of Operations of the Department of Health, Division of Family Health Services, where he supported the Division's Assistant Commissioner and oversaw operational efficiencies and performance management.

In his current post as Assistant Commissioner for the Division of Community Health Services (CHS), he oversees the Community Health and Wellness (chronic disease control and prevention services) Unit, the Office of Primary Care and Rural Health and Oral Health Services.

Mr. Hornsby is married to Melissa Dyanne (nee Chisholm) Hornsby and the couple reside in Lawrenceville. The couple also has two adult children, Din Mayfield (married with one child) and Nia Mayfield, who have their own residences.
